Driving habits that help to save fuel and money

Want to know how you can save fuel in easy steps? This article will tell you! The only thing you have to do is change your driving habits a bit. First let me explain the importance of saving fuel. A study suggests that our planet has only 1687.9 Billion gallons of fuel left which is approximately 53 years of fuel left in the world. Although this amount is not accurate it is said that many countries aren't disclosing the quantity they have. So yes, fuel is surely running out which is leading to an increase in its price. So that's why we want to help you make the best use of fuel. Here I am also discussing about car cleaning or car washing Moreover if you have a high-quality Metal Coating like Nasiol Nano ceramic coating there's no need to wash your ride so hard.

Speed is the fuel destroyer

Well I am someone who personally loves to speed up a bit every now and then but sudden bursts of speed is not good at all. The force you put on the accelerator makes all the difference. Take 5-6 seconds to accelerate your ride from 0-30 km/h for optimal fuel efficiency. So when you apply force on the accelerator there is a strain on the engine of your machine. This reduces the fuel efficiency by 33% which is quite significant. If you are legend who uses manual gear shift just make sure you use a moderate throttle position and shift between 2000 and 2500 rpm. Driving with joy is the essence here. Speed up only when you have to otherwise enjoy your beautiful ride while saving precious fuel at the same time.

This point is almost similar to the point I made before. If you want to reduce fuel consumption by 20% then sudden dips in speed with gradual accelerations is a good way. Engines work at their best when they have a moderate to high throttle. Get a car with cruise control as it is great for fuel efficiency. This feature maintains a constant speed which keeps fuel consumption in check.

Say no to jamming the breaks

When you are driving smoothly without any hiccup you don't need to jam the breaks. Coasting towards a stop sign or a red light and waiting for civilians to safely pass by is strongly advised. Applying breaks heavily wastes a lot of engine's energy, consuming more fuel. This not only harms the fuel efficiency but also wears out your tyres saving you a lot of bucks on maintenance.

Avoid putting stress on your fuel tank

One of the most important habit to follow is never drive until the fuel tank is empty as it puts a lot of stress on your engine and fuel tank. Keeping the tank half full is also recommended for safety and proper exercise of engine capacity. This helps you to increase the mileage of your ride.

Owners should always keep the health of their vehicle in mind. After all how healthy a vehicle is makes the amount you've spent count. The time you spend caring about your vehicle determines how much amount you will get on selling it.

But you cannot change the condition of your ride in few weeks or just start caring for it when you want to sell it. The damage will already have been caused till that time. Also check out Deck Nano Coating and Wooden Coating from Nasiol to keep wooden surfaces neat and protected.

Here are a few tips to maintain high resale value of your vehicle:

Get it Serviced Regularly

One thing which is really important for your ride is regular maintenance. You should know when to give your vehicle what it needs before its engine starts to make weird noises.

Changing your oil regularly is the single most important step in taking care of your ride. It's not expensive and even avoids major issues later on. Frequent tune-ups should also be kept in mind. It will make sure that the mechanical problems that arise with time are dealt with.

Be Cool About Mileage

The more you drive, the less mileage your vehicle will give. Whenever possible avoid using your ride and carpool instead to keep the mileage to bare minimum. It will not only maintain a high resale value but will also keep the engine young and flying.

Use Nano Coatings for a Shiny and Protected Exterior

The factor which affects the resale value of a vehicle the most is exterior. The shinier and prettier an exterior is the more value it will get. You can drive easily without worrying about minor scratches and dents. Preserve the showroom shine of your ride with Nano Ceramic Coatings. Nano coating is a way better alternative than waxing as it lasts for years while the latter lasts for only a few months.

A Pleasant Look and Smell of the Interior

No matter how beautiful your car looks from the outside the buyers will always take a look inside to check how it looks and feels. This is the reason why you should keep it neat and clean at all costs. This doesn't mean that you can't eat or have fun inside your car but make sure to clean it up before the stains become permanent.
